

A Guide To
Kimbel Library's
Web Site Changes

Searching the CATALOG for books, DVDs, etc.

(This was "Search the online catalog" in the previous Web page.)

Where did the catalog go? I need to search for a book, DVD, etc.?

You can do a quick catalog search under the catalog tab, or you can click "Advanced Catalog Search" to go to the main catalog screen.

Searching for Journal Articles, finding specific databases.

(This was "Indexes and Online Resources" in the previous Web page.)

I want to search my favorite database (for example: JSTOR)
How do I find it?

First, click on the Articles & eResources tab.

You can find your databases 3 ways:

To see an entire list, choose Browse ALL Databases.

To see a list of databases within a subject area, select your subject from this list.

If you know the name of the database, enter the name (or the first part of the name) here.
