Wyatt Henderson brought the meeting to order at 10:00 a.m. and Sam Frink offered an invocation.

Coach Ellis, other coaches, and the men’s basketball team received the following resolution and a standing ovation.

WHEREAS, the Coastal Carolina University 2013-2014 MEN’S BASKETBALL TEAM won the 2014 Big South Conference Tournament Championship with a 76-61 victory over Winthrop University; and

Done this Ninth day of May, Two Thousand and Fourteen

Coach Ellis gave tribute to the basketball team who worked hard to achieve great success. It has been a shining moment in their lives and Coastal’s history. When he was hired there was a lot of work to be done to take a team to the “Big Dance.” He expressed appreciation to the Board of Trustees for their support and asked them to continue investing in athletics.

Dennis Wade, President of the Coastal Educational Foundation, reported that 2.94 acres have been donated to CCU for a new academic building. Elliott Davis, LLC has been engaged to provide audit services for the CEF for the next five fiscal years. Christy Cooper Whitlock of
Board of Trustees Meeting
May 9, 2014

Pawleys Island and Ann Brittain LeMay of Myrtle Beach have filled two vacant seats on the CEF.

The FY2015 unrestricted operating budget committed $2.1M for the Academic/Program Budget; $410,000 for scholarship support and $1.7M for program support. The purchase of about one acre on 544 at the University’s request has been approved. Investment manager, Brown Brothers Harriman, continues to shift assets into equities. BBH anticipates it will reach the 70% equities and 30% fixed income allocation in the next few months as more stocks become available that meet BBH’s investment criteria.

The CEF financials as of 3/31/14 include:
- Total assets $37.4M; $28.5M in cash and investments
- $3.4M in unrestricted cash and investment.
- Return on investments (net of fees) is 5.5%
- 5-year average annual return is 14.38%; 10-year average annual return is 5.84%

Chris Johnson, Chanticleer Athletic Foundation, Executive Director, reported that the CAF remains focused on baseball/softball projects. The CAF has committed $8M in private funding for this at project end. YTD total fundraising for CAF is $5,557,790; total cash received $2,117,481.

II. Approval of Minutes

Bill Biggs moved to approve the February 14, 2014 Board of Trustees minutes and Chuck Lewis seconded. The motion passed.

III. President’s Report

Greg Thornburg presented an Enrollment Services update and noted the new table banners around the room which will be used on recruiting trips. In February, the “No Stone Unturned” campaign started which included a local acceptance student day, 13 Saturday programs, discovery day programs, 15 hotel student receptions, and an event in Raleigh before basketball games. Next week admissions counsellors will be going into local high schools. The unused $50,000 financial funds not used by students will be recycled to help other students. Forty-six faculty have volunteered and helped call 500 students this academic year who were eligible for scholarships enticing them to come to Coastal Carolina. Relocating to Baxley Hall has allowed Admissions to meet more families and prospective students and to have finance counsellors available.

He expressed appreciation for Amanda Craddock, Director of Admissions. Derek Doss, Associate Director of Admissions, was recognized for his preparation of the successful hotel receptions. On April 12, we had the largest discovery day on campus.
2014 Spring Enrollment of 8,705 was the largest enrollment in history. Fall projections look good. The goal is 9,670, which includes a 1.6% increase in freshman applications. Some melt down is anticipated with the announcements of new tuition and fee rates.

Gene Spivey wanted to know what the tuition is in the states where we have hotel programs. Bowie stated that we continue to be very competitive in those states. Byington noted that Institutional Research had performed a zip code comparison analysis of tuition at schools near the hotel programs. Some in-state school tuition is comparable to our out-of-state tuition. We cannot compete with North Carolina because of their low cost; however, we are making great gains with them.

Hanna asked what is the in-state/out-of-state student ratio. Thornburg replied that it is 54/46% in-state and out-of-state students based on high school attended. DeCenzo noted that this does not take into account the common market and military which would then make the ratio about 50/50%.

Project Coordinator David Yancey made a presentation on a new software advisement module in dashboard which he has developed to help advisors with retention and available resources. The dashboard indicators supply schedule risks; advisee distribution by state; student holds; information from previous, current and future semesters regarding retention; and, GPA range. At first, the concentration will be on first year advisors and then available to all faculty.

Madden said faculty is looking forward to having this information available. It will make advising sessions faster and allow students to move forward with their education.

DeCenzo feels that we should have this software trademarked.

Interim Dean Barbara A. Ritter of the E. Craig Wall Sr. College of Business Administration made the “Innovating Together with Success” presentation. The mission of the College of Business Administration is to educate each student to develop marketable skills for a successful career in a globally competitive and diverse environment.

Through innovative education, Dr. Karen Maguire is a great example of doing just that. She received the 2014 Service Learning Award from the S.C. Commission on Higher Education for assisting local not-for-profit organizations. The first step of this project was a research project to determine the practices and programs NPOs had in place, areas of weaknesses, and steps to achieve more efficient accounting and stewardship practices. Students then determined the policies applicable to NPOs on the basis of size and provided a menu of policies for four different sized organizations. Next, students conducted a financial asset mapping and gap analysis of all NPOs in Horry and Georgetown counties in order to assess the potential to form coalitions, centralize backroom operations, and create financial efficiencies. With this project, students applied the knowledge and skills they had learned in the classroom, reflected on the material they have learned, gathered any additional material needed to conduct the analyses, and presented the material to NPO executives. This project was executed through two graduate classes.
Twenty CCU business students travelled to Omaha on Nov. 14, along with Kenneth Small, Assistant Dean of Students for the Wall College of Business, and Gina Cummings, Director of CCU’s Wall Fellows Program. CCU alumnus Alexander Klaus was instrumental in arranging an invitation to meet with Warren Buffett. During the trip, the group toured a variety of businesses such as Berkshire Hathaway Inc., TD Ameritrade, Borsheims Fine Jewelry and Gifts, and Oriental Trading Company and met with some of the companies’ upper-level executives. They met with Buffett for lunch and participated in an exclusive question and answer session.

This is an indication of the growing reputation of our college, and the increasing alumni presence of the Wall College around the nation. Other universities that have participated in the Friday meetings with Buffett include the Harvard Business School, MIT’s Sloan School of Business and Stanford University.

An award-winning example of the Master in Accountancy program is the MBA 611 class on leadership. Graduate students from Coastal Carolina worked with Red Rocket. In a letter to the University, David Sapp reported that the team had exceeded expectations and hopes to work with more students from Coastal in the future.

The Gerald Boyles Student Investment Fund is a prestigious opportunity for business students interested in investments to get real practice experience. The first major donation for the fund was received this week. Finance students have the opportunity to engage in various investment strategies and decisions in managing real money in real time. It is governed by an investment advisory board that is comprised of faculty, administrators and investment professionals. These academic and business leaders share their expertise and interact with students during student investment presentations.

Evidence of success of the program is through recruitments and assessment. We have experienced 10% student growth; 35% management major growth; 18.5% increase in deposits this year for the college of business; retention integrated freshman year experience with UNIV 110 and CBAD 120; retention coordinator started in the fall of 2013; professional development activities and mentoring; increased internships; and, increased job placement.

Student-athlete Meghan Laffin was introduced. She received one of the most prestigious awards on campus, the 2014 Ronald D. Lackey Service Award. Undergraduate students are nominated by their peers or by faculty or staff members to be considered regarding service to the University. She is also in the Wall Fellows Program.

Laffin reported that last summer she internshipped at CBS and after graduation will work with CBS fulltime. She came to Coastal Carolina on a volleyball scholarship and became captain of the team. Four years at Coastal has been an incredible journey. She encouraged the University to continue giving students hands-on experiences and feels that internships are extremely important. She will wear teal proudly in New York City.

Ritter stated the college needs to grow the internship program in cooperative agreements with local organizations and have strategic growth for graduate level programs.
Marion Lee and Chuck Lewis were very impressed with Ritter’s presentation and congratulated the administration and faculty for their student success programs. The University is developing outstanding young people.

DeCenzo noted that he has now been president of Coastal Carolina University for seven years, and it has been a privilege to serve. He looks forward to many more years.
