

Marketing

- √ Major
- √ Minor

Description of the major:

Marketing students focus on understanding the marketplace and developing appropriate marketing strategies for their organizations. Marketers bring buyers and sellers together in the marketplace to allow each party to realize their desired outcomes. For buyers, this means solutions to their problems. For sellers, this typically means increasing market share, revenue, profitability and other outcomes. Marketers create items of value (goods, services, ideas, etc.) that are priced, promoted and distributed in a competitive and dynamic marketplace.

The student experience:

- The E. Craig Wall Sr. College of Business Administration is accredited by AACSB International, the premier accrediting body for business colleges.
- The Center for Economic and Community Development offers students and faculty opportunities to conduct applied research projects for local businesses, organizations and government agencies. Some research projects through the years have included numerous surveys, assessments, feasibility studies and impact studies.
- Students can apply for the Wall Fellows program, designed to prepare top business students for high-level careers in major U.S. and international corporations and organizations. This two-year program features internships and coursework covering specific interpersonal and communication skills, ethics, personal appearance, and business and social etiquette.

Beyond the classroom:

- Recent graduates of the marketing program have careers in sales management, public relations, advertising (creating ideas and/or writing copy), market research and analysis, retail merchandise management and customer service management.
