Time: 10-11:30 a.m. | Admission: Free and open to the public

Saturday, Feb. 4: Iran at a Crossroads
By the fall of 2022, Iran was in a state of turmoil due to factors including: protests against government-enforced wearing of the hijab, a failing economy, and the looming succession of leader Ayatollah Khamenei. Abroad, renewal of the Iran nuclear deal seemed doubtful and tensions remain high between Iran, Israel, and Arab states. Many Iranians have lost hope of a better future, and the country seems at a crossroads. How should the United States deal with this?

Speaker: Suheir Daoud, Ph.D., Professor, Department of Political Science, Coastal Carolina University

Saturday, Feb. 11: China and the United States
For a decade, the United States and China have been in competition to be the greatest global influencer. A major point of contention is the status of Taiwanese sovereignty, now even more relevant with the possibility that the Ukraine invasion may prompt China to take similar action with Taiwan. How will the United States engage with a China which is increasingly seeking to expand its sphere of influence?

Speaker: Min Ye, Ph.D., Professor, Department of Political Science, Coastal Carolina University

Saturday, Feb. 18: Politics in Latin America
Electoral results in Latin America over the past four years have led many observers of the regional/political scene to discern a left-wing surge in the hemisphere, reminiscent of the so-called “Pink Tide” that swept the area some 20 years ago. But how much do these politicians actually have in common? What implication does their ascendancy have for the region?

Speaker: Rick Kilroy, Ph.D., Professor, Department of Political Science, Coastal Carolina University

Saturday, Feb. 25: War Crimes
Russia’s invasion of Ukraine has resulted in widespread charges of war crimes and calls for justice. But what exactly are war crimes? Opinions of what constitutes a war crime have evolved, as have ways to identify and punish the perpetrators. How will the war crimes committed in Ukraine be handled?

Speaker: Thomas Nachbar, J.D., Professor, University of Virginia Law School and U.S. Army Judge Advocate General School
