SUMMARY:

Students who are placed on academic probation, as defined in the Coastal Carolina University Catalog, must complete the requirements set forth by their academic college in addition to the requirements that are listed in the Coastal Carolina University Catalog. Modifications to college specific policies must be approved by the Academic Affairs Committee, Faculty Senate and the provost.

POLICY:

I. Policy

Students who are placed on academic probation, as defined in the Coastal Carolina University Catalog, must complete the requirements set forth by their academic college in addition to the requirements that are listed in the Coastal Carolina University Catalog. College-specific policies are developed by the Office of the Dean of each academic college. Modifications to college-specific policies must be approved by the Academic Affairs Committee, Faculty Senate and the provost.

A. Wall College of Business

Business students, including all business majors, pre-majors and undeclared business majors, who are placed on academic probation and have completed more than 30 graded credit hours must complete the requirements listed below in addition to the requirements listed in the Coastal Carolina University Catalog. Business students who completed less 30 graded hours do not need to complete the requirement listed below, but must complete the additional requirements that are listed in the University Catalog.

1. Work with the business tutors in the Wall Center for Excellence at least 10 times during the course of each semester in which they are on academic advisory
2. Meet their academic advisor twice during the course of the semester – once during the first three weeks of the semester and once more before they register for classes.

3. Complete UNIV 105: Academic Improvement Hour. Students will be automatically registered for this zero-credit course and are expected to receive a satisfactory grade. The course is designed to teach students basic life and learning skills.

B. Spadoni College of Education
All students in the College of Education who are on academic probation are required to meet individually with the associate dean and must meet with their academic advisor at least twice during the semester to discuss their progress until they are no longer on academic probation.

C. Edwards College of Humanities and Fine Arts
All students in the College of Humanities and Fine Arts on academic probation must attend the Dean’s Academic Seminar; students with less than 30 credits should follow the University policy, while students with more than 30 earned credit hours must meet the following requirements:

1. Meet with their academic advisor three times per semester (once in the first three weeks, once at midterm/registration, and once before finals)

2. Successfully complete HFA 133 Mindset for Success in their first semester on probation; meet with the college retention coordinator twice per semester for each semester on probation thereafter

D. Gupta College of Science
All students in the College of Science on academic probation must attend the Dean’s Academic Success Seminar, and students who have earned more than 30 credits must meet with an academic success advisor within the College of Science Advising Center at least once each semester until they are no longer on academic probation. In addition, students are strongly encouraged to enroll in UNIV 105S Academic Improvement Hour.

E. HTC Honors College and Center for Disciplinary Studies
All students in the University College on academic probation must attend the Dean’s Academic Success Seminar, and students must meet with an academic success advisor within the Advising Center at least twice each semester until they are no longer on academic probation. In addition, students are strongly encouraged to enroll in UNIV 105 Academic Improvement Hour.