

Finance is the art and science of managing money in public and private enterprises. It encompasses a wide array of theory, concepts, applications, and analytical tools needed for effective decision-making. Finance majors will be prepared to enter careers in corporate finance, investments, portfolio analysis and management, and financial markets and institutions.

New Catalog Description:

Finance is the art and science of managing money in public and private enterprises. It encompasses a wide array of theory, concepts, applications, and analytical tools needed for effective decision-making. Finance majors will be prepared to enter careers in corporate finance; investments; portfolio analysis and management; and financial markets and institutions.

Finance majors specializing in the wealth management concentration are required to take either FIN 492—Portfolio Management or FIN 494—Case Studies in Financial Planning. Students enrolled in the Certified Financial Planning Certificate Program are required to take FIN 494. All other students of wealth management are required to take FIN 492.