SUMMARY:

The development of new courses and modification of existing courses support the mission of the University to provide high-quality education to undergraduate and graduate students. This policy explains the procedure by which these acts are accomplished.

POLICY:

I. POLICY

The formation of new courses or modification(s) to existing courses begins at the department level to support and/or enhance a degree program or programs, or to support other academic purposes of the University.

II. UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

A. New or modified (meaning new description, title, credit hours, pre-requisites, co-requisites, number, or adding or deleting a course to the core curriculum) courses are first approved by the faculty of the department. Using the action titled “Proposal for changes in, restoration of, or removal of an undergraduate course” or using “Proposal for a new undergraduate course” (accessed through the Academic Affairs Committee website: https://www.coastal.edu/forms/provost/academic/), rationale for the new course or course modification must be listed. Any additional equipment, space, faculty, or funds needed to initiate the course must be noted on the form.

B. Once approved by the department, the proposal is reviewed by the corresponding college curriculum committee. If approved by the college curriculum committee, the dean (or associate dean) approves the proposal, which moves the proposal forward to either the Core Curriculum Committee or the Academic Affairs Committee.

C. If the new or modified course will represent a University Core Course, it will first be considered by the Core Curriculum Committee, which reviews, and, if approved, recommends the course to the Academic Affairs Committee. If core review is not necessary, the form is routed directly to the Academic Affairs Committee.

D. New courses and major course revisions that are approved by the Academic Affairs Committee are forwarded to the chair of Faculty Senate for review and approval by the Faculty Senate.

E. Following parliamentary procedures, the motion to approve a new course or course modifications requires a majority vote by the Faculty Senate. Once approved, the Faculty Senate recorder prepares an administrative action form, as is done for all motions approved by the Faculty Senate. This form is forwarded to the provost and president for their review, for the citing of any stipulations if needed, and for their signatures. Copies of motions that receive stipulations are returned to the Faculty Senate chair for the Faculty Senate’s information only.

F. Copies of the completed administrative action forms are forwarded to the Office of the Registrar for information. Originals are maintained by the Office of the Provost.

III. GRADUATE COURSES

A. All graduate courses must adhere to the mission of the department, college, Office of Graduate Studies, and University.

B. New courses or modifications to existing courses (such as changes in description, title, credit hours, pre-requisites, co-requisites, or numbering) are approved by faculty within a department. Using the action titled “Proposal for changes in, restoration of, or removal of a graduate course” or using “Proposal for a new graduate course” (accessed through the Academic Affairs website: www.coastal.edu/app/academic/affairs/my_forms.html), rationale for the new course or course modification must be listed. Any additional equipment, space, faculty, or funds needed to initiate the course must be noted on the form.

C. Once approved by the department, the proposal is reviewed by the corresponding college curriculum or graduate committee, as defined by the procedural guidelines for each college. If approved by the college committee and the dean (or associate dean), the proposal is forwarded to the Graduate Council.

D. New courses and course revisions that are approved by the Graduate Council are forwarded to the chair of the Faculty Senate for review and approval by the Faculty Senate.

E. Following parliamentary procedures, the motion to approve a new course or course modifications requires a majority vote by the Faculty Senate. Once approved, the Faculty Senate recorder prepares an administrative action form, as is done for all motions approved by the Faculty Senate. This form is forwarded to the provost and president for their review, for the citing of any stipulations if needed, and for their signatures. Copies of motions that receive stipulations from the provost, the president, or both are returned to the Graduate Council chair for the Graduate Council’s information only.
F. Copies of completed administrative action forms are forwarded to the Office of the Registrar and the Office of Graduate Studies for information. Originals are maintained in the Office of the Provost.
